

Chapter 9

Published Clinical Studies Run By Medicine To Test The Pauling Therapy

NONE.

The best evidence that medicine only pretends to be based on science is the fact that medical 'science' has failed to acknowledge, investigate, or publish a single study on Linus Pauling's theory. They have had 20 years in which to do so but have failed utterly, to the great detriment of public health. We believe that the vitamin C theory has been kept under wraps by deliberately failing to run and publish studies that would have been conducted in any other field of science.

Economic factors can distort the science of medicine. We are quite sure that even one study would have had a major impact, and would have made Linus Pauling into a National hero. Instead, his work lies dormant because there is no study to "defend" it. We must keep in mind the caliber of the scientist who made this claim and the utter lack of toxicity, and test this theory no matter how outrageous the idea may sound.

Sadly, this failure of medicine to test the Pauling theory is also harming the great apes in zoos worldwide. The gorilla suffers the same GLO defect as humans, and zoo gorillas everywhere are dying from heart disease.

The purpose of science is to seek truth. Apparently medicine does not wish to follow truth in these matters. Linus Pauling was one of the world's great scientists and, in fact, the
